

Free Trial Terms

By entering the Product Trial, you will be bound by these terms & conditions, you acknowledge that you satisfy all eligibility requirements.

Submitting the request form does not constitute a guarantee for admission to the trial and Kensington reserve the right to refuse this offer to any possible participant for any reason.

- This offer is only available to companies and offered to the decision maker or part of the decision-making team for the company in question.
- This offer is limited to one product per company and is not valid for partners or resellers.

Admission to take part in the products trial is subject to availability and Kensington reserve the right to cancel or change the terms of the trial without notice.

This trial will run until 31st December 2024 or until when specified otherwise within Europe, Middle East & Africa.

The participant agreed to the submission of his/her personal information and agrees they have read, understood and agreed to the privacy policy. Rejection of personal data usage is possible at any time but will forfeit the participant from taking part in the product trial.

All trials are offered 'as is' with no written, express or implied warranty.

The reporting and payment of any taxes on trial products, if necessary, are the sole responsibility of the participant.

To the extent permitted by law, Kensington is not responsible for any injury or damage to persons or property which may be caused directly or indirectly, in whole or in part from participants participation in the Product Trial.

This Product Trial is governed by and construed in accordance with British law. Any disputes arising under the Product Trial will be settled by the courts.